Training to Be an Athlete. Sir Benjamin Ward Richardson, th eminent London practitioner, says that the athletic life runs from 18 to 36 years of age. According to that, John L Sullivan was not yet hast his prime when Corbett whipped him, for John was only

Dr. Richardson, gives some rules for athletic training and diet which will interest the Logs and girls, for Dr. Rich ardson contends that women as well as men may become athletes. The would be athlete must abstain from alcohol and tobacco strictly, according to the London doctor, while "gambling is fatal to body and mind." A famous trainer, whom he knew told him there were four essentials to athletic success, and the strange part of it is that these four essentials are every one mental quallies. They are precision, decision, presence of mind, endurance. These qualities would make their nossessor successful in any field he entered. Fear is most fatal of all to the athlete's success. It paralyzes all operations, from sight rope walking to slugging. Most the doctor dwells, however, on what he names "mental endurance." It seems to through. Dr. Richardson puts "mental ondurance" before physical endurance. The athlete must sleep at least seven hours a day. In training he must observe four more essentials-abstinence from hurtful things, regular and good habits, calmness of temper, landable am bition. For diet the following is recoin mended:

THE SULTAN OF TURKEY GIVES WOM-

Only One of His Kind-Miss Rayard's Court Dress-Eliquette of the Wedding-Two Saccess-A New York Woman Skinner.

The dominions of the Ottoman ports offer a field for the women physicians. The sultan of Turkey has just promulgated a firman by virtue of which women can hereafter practice medicine in Turkey upon presentation of their diplo mas. Some persons may be surprised t learn that this news has a political importance of the first order. Undoubted ly the issuing of the decree is due pri-marily to the unwillingness of the Mussulmans to allow a male obvision to onter their harens. This is permitted only in cases of exceptional gravity—after old women who are thought to be magicians r sorcerors have exhausted their efforts. At the same time physicians are highly respected and even venerated by the Turks and generally by all orientals.

As, however, it is only quite recently that Turks have begun to study medicine, nearly all the physicians—certainly be a determination that you will go all those of much reputation—in Turkey through a thing and last fill it is gone have been and are Christians of that country -- Greeks, Armenians, Levant ines, as well as French, English and Italians. It is easy to foresee that women doctors from foreign countries will nave a brilliant future in Turkey and vill exercise an immense influence in Furkish families. The sex of these physicians will afford them free access to arems. As Turkish women have very little elementary education and live a very retired life, they are easily governed by persons who are better educated than

Sex Distinction

Commenting upon the appointment of Louise Imagen Guiney to a postoffice, the Boston Herald says: "Perhaps it is just as well that Mrs Guney of Auburn-dale goes on the official roster as a postmaster. It would be just as well, too, if she were to be recognized in letters as a poet instead of as a poetess. There's no sex in art or in literature that requires this distinction." Upon which the Boston Record sensibly asks, "Is there any "sex in public affairs' which requires a sex distinction in voting?"
